Those of us who are lucky enough to be able to converse from time to time with El Kanka know how important his songs are for him. And this is exactly what the singer wants to do on stage with this acoustic tour that starts in March. At each concert we will have the chance to enjoy his songs just as they were created, without any other instrument aside from his guitar and a ukulele.

A unique opportunity to listen to El Kanka sing and to the stories about what is hidden behind the lyrics of his songs.

This journey through his different records will be full of special, unique moments, and perhaps even some surprise.

El Kanka is a self-made singer-songwriter in the traditional sense, in other words one who has developed slowly but surely. Nowadays he can boast of being one of the artists in Spain and Latin America who has won the largest number of awards. With 5 published albums, it is strange to say that El Kanka is faithful to his sound, when in fact it is based on a particular fusion of sounds with which he creates a diversity of songs that combine a large number of styles. However, when you hear one of El Kanka's songs, you know it is his from the very first chords.

The singer, who in 2023 was named Malagueño del Año in the Area of Culture, and in 2024 was chosen to give the inaugural speech of the Malaga Fair, continues to exude optimism in his lyrics and to work to create honest music focused on showing what he feels deep inside.
