The horror genre has produced some of the most important soundtracks in the history of cinema. And in this concert we are going to give this genre a more than deserved tribute. Featuring a more than deserved tribute to Spanish horror. The music by Waldo de los Ríos for the films of Chicho Ibáñez Serrador. The episodic terror such as The Twilight Zone, Amazing Tales or Tales from the Crypt.
And let's not forget, our guests' music. The music by Richard Band, the best genre composer for low-budget productions, especially for Full Moon studios. The Newton Brothers, the young musical magicians of terror, for Mike Flanagan works such as Midnight Mass, The Haunting of Hill House or Doctor Sleep.
And of course the music from Spanish productions by Luc Suarez (The Nun) or Urubú by our musical director, Arturo Díez Boscovich.
You should be afraid of missing it.
