As a chamber music festival, and following one of the main philosophies of the genre, we understand that Málaga Clásica ought to be an event closely tied to and celebrated by the audience and the city of Málaga. As such, we aim for a reciprocal relationship where all parties involved can enjoy the music.
In this XI edition, we want young talents to participate in the festival, allowing them to perform and share experiences with the invited musicians of international prestige. The groups of young talents, chosen through a selection process by our artistic directors, will be in charge of performing in the concerts of this series. They will also be the lucky ones to receive the masterclasses scheduled during the festival, organized in collaboration with the Galamian Internacional Academy.
