"In the form of a jazz trio or a flamenco quartet – in Cadiz quartets consist of three or five members– Rosario Toledo (dancer), Blanca Barranco (double-bass) and Javier Galiana (piano) present these Playeras that stem from an incredible album recorded by the two musicians during the state of siege of the damned coronavirus pandemic. They wanted to dedicate the record to the beaches, yes, to all the beaches in the world. We sing what we lose, and some of that loss seeps through the strings of the cello and the piano, something that has made Rosario's restless feet move. She saw footprints on the beach and didn't realise they were her own feet! That's where Playeras comes from." The Company

Rosario Toledo is at the top of contemporary flamenco for her creativity and ability to transmit the essence that surrounds us. Her latest projects include, in 2018, Flamencos de la tacita, presented at the Bienal de Sevilla and, in 2020, Marea viva, a commission from the Cádiz es Flamenco festival. He is National Flamenco Art Award of Cordoba (1998), Second Prize at the Festival de las Minas (1999), Giralddillo Award for Best Show at the Bienal de Sevilla and Escenario de Sevilla Award (2012) with Alaluya erótica, and Best Dance Show and Lorca Award of Andalusian Theater for Amazonas.
