Following their huge success in all their television appearances, these five little artists are coming to present their show live. Rock, ska, punk and young people mix to form an explosive cocktail called Los Crackids.

Javi, Marcos, Sergio, Adrián and David met at Rock Factory, their school of music in San Pedro de Alcántara. In 2021 they formed their group to participate in the television programme Tierra de talento, in which they reached the semi-finals. The most important rock magazines in Spain and Latin America reported their performance, and their video of a piece by Los Ramones went viral.

Los Crackids have shared a lot since they were little, which is reflected by the affinity they show during their performances. Their future will definitely be full of success and lots of fun.
