On a winter afternoon, a girl is walking home, breathless.
The cold and the wind are making it very difficult for her.
From way above, someone is watching.
It's the Sun's son, in charge of the change of seasons.
He quickly comes down to help her,
and, with great generosity, to give her a flower.
But what a surprise it is for him
To realise that because of the weather, he is unable to do so.
The moral of this story is that regardless of how difficult things may be, never give up!!
